DEUTERONOMY 17:18-20

2024: DIVINE OPPOSITES

Commit to spending at least 10 minutes a day writing out the Scripture for that day and meditating on what it means for you. In May we'll look at what God promises to remember and forget and what He wants us to remember.

DO THE "WRITE" THING!

STUDY SUGGESTIONS

God knows that we are good at forgetting the things we ought to remember and remembering things we ought to forget, so He regularly gives us reminders in the Scriptures about how we ought to think about these things.

For the month of May, we look at remembering and forgetting in the Bible.

God wants us to remember His blessings, His Word, and His actions on our behalf in the past. He cautions us against forgetting the poor and powerless. In addition, God Himself promises to forget our sins when they are forgiven and remember us and His covenant with us.

Option 1: Devotional study

Write the verses on a card or in a journal and take a moment to pray about what God is saying in this passage and reflect on how it applies to you. Try using the SPECK method of application:

1. Sin - Is there a sin I need to confess or avoid?
2. Promise - Is there a promise of God in this passage?
3. Example - Is there a role model in this passage?
4. Command - Is there a command to obey?
5. Knowledge - What knowledge do I gain about God?

As you answer the questions, write down a few thoughts in your journal or on the back of the card.

Option 2: In Depth method

Write the verses at the top of a sheet of paper in a journal. Answer the following questions about the passage:

1. Who wrote this passage and to whom was it written?
2. What is the theme of the book or section?
3. What are some key words in the passage and what do they mean? You may want to consult a lexicon or Bible dictionary.
4. What are some ways this passage would have challenged the first readers? How does it challenge Christians today?
5. For application purposes, consider using the SPECK method from Option 1.
